Reasonable Accommodation Request

A. Questions to help determine whether an employee has a disability.

Answer the following questions based on what limitations the employee has when the condition is in an active state and what limitations the employee would have if no mitigating measures were used.

Mitigating measures include things such as medication, medical supplies, equipment, hearing aids, mobility devices, the use of assistive technology, reasonable accommodations or auxiliary aids or services, prosthetics, learned behavioral or adaptive neurological modifications, psychotherapy, behavioral therapy, and physical therapy. Mitigating measures do not include ordinary eyeglasses or contact lenses.

- B. Question to help determine whether an accommodation is needed. An employee with a disability is entitled to an accommodation only when the accommodation is needed because of the disability. Accommodation ideas and suggestions are always welcome and can be helpful however, employers do get to choose the effective accommodation that will be provided for an employee, as outlined by the EEOC. To assist us in determining the most appropriate and effective accommodation(s), the employer needs to know what specific symptoms and functional limitations are creating barriers for the employee. The following questions may help determine whether the requested accommodation is needed because of the disability. Please answer the following with as much detail as possible. Thank you.
- 1. What limitation(s) is interfering with job performance or accessing a benefit of employment? {What is getting in the way of the employee from doing their job?}

2. What specific job function(s) or benefits of employment is the employee having trouble performing or accessing because of the limitations?
3. How does the employee's limitation(s) interfere with their ability to perform the job function(s) or access benefit of employment?
C. Questions to help determine effective accommodation options: If an employee has a disability and needs an accommodation because of the disability, the employer must provide a reasonable accommodation, unless the accommodation poses an undue hardship. The following questions may help determine effective accommodations.
1. Do you have any suggestions regarding possible accommodations to improve job performance? NoYes: please explain what they are:

How would your suggested accommodations improve the employee's job performance?
D. Other Questions and Comments.
